St. Albans Man Wins $100,000

BERLIN, VT. – June 3, 2008 – A St. Albans man didn't need to go to Vegas to win $100,000, he simply picked up a Vermont Lottery instant game.

David Wells kept to his usual practice of purchasing a handful of instant tickets each Friday at the Colonial Deli Mart. When he scratched a Casino Riches ticket, his first reaction was that the store clerks were playing a joke on him.

Mr. Wells, however, soon realized the ticket was real and claimed his prize at the Vermont Lottery headquarters.

Vermont lottery games are sold at almost 700 locations throughout the state. For information on lottery games and on-line game draw results, please visit www.vtlottery.com.
