Vermont Lottery Announces Gaming System Vendor Selection

BERLIN, VT. – June 22, 2009 – The Vermont Lottery announced today that it will begin contract negotiations with Intralot, Inc., for a new lottery gaming system. The initial contract will be for six years, with 2 possible extensions of two years each, beginning July 1, 2010. This award is following an independent review of the proposal and process by the Vermont Department of Innovation and Information, which is now complete.

Intralot will be charged with sales of online games (such as Powerball or Tri-state Megabucks), sales and inventory of instant scratch games, and a communications system that will connect approximately 700 lottery agents to a central system. The current vendor, Scientific Games, will remain the Lottery's online vendor until their contract ends on June 30, 2010.

Vermont lottery games are sold at almost 700 locations throughout the state.
